

We are forwarding the following message from DOE regarding the continuance in an essential mission-critical operations posture at the Hanford Site. Please read carefully and share with your teams. Thank you to our MSA family for continuing to stay safe.

From: ^RL/ORP Manager <RLORPManager@rl.gov>

Sent: Thursday, April 9, 2020 6:58 AM

Subject: CURRENT HANFORD SITE POSTURE OF ESSENTIAL MISSION CRITICAL OPERATIONS CONTINUES NEXT WEEK

All Hanford Site Employees:

SUBJECT: CURRENT HANFORD SITE POSTURE OF ESSENTIAL MISSION CRITICAL OPERATIONS CONTINUES NEXT WEEK

My thanks go out to everyone as we approach the end of our third week in an essential mission-critical operations posture at the Hanford Site. Progress continues in our important mission through remote work while a limited number of our teammates are reporting to site work locations on a daily basis to maintain safe conditions for our community, the region, and environment.

For the week of 13 April, the site posture will remain in the current state of essential mission-critical operations. On a weekly basis, we will continue to evaluate the multiple factors under consideration that will lead to a decision to begin a phased, structured, and methodical process towards the resumption of site operations when conditions support.

I am grateful and appreciative of the dedication and flexibility by everyone during these unprecedented times. Please continue to focus on your safety and health at home, at work, and, when it is necessary, when in the community.

Please continue to monitor the Hanford mobile app and the Hanford website for updates.

Brian T. Vance
Manager
Richland Operations /
Office of River Protection

